

SAP PLM Consultant

Denmark

Job reference:DK02468

Are you looking for a job where you can combine your technical insight with your consultancy skills? Then join CF-IDD Product Development as our SAP PLM Consultant. We develop and implement SAP solutions within product lifecycle management (PLM) to all of Danfoss' business units. This is a unique chance to enter a position with global outlook where you will have an international and wide surface of contact.

Provide IT solutions to support our business processes

Cooperating closely with our business units, you advise on, develop and drive the implementation of IT solutions that support our business processes within the PLM area. As we seek to obtain relevant certificates of international quality standards, this could be one of your focus areas. Besides, your tasks will cover the following areas:

- Quality management
- Engineering change management and document management
- Variant configuration and classification
- The integration between SAP PLM and our CAD environment
- IT support to the global Danfoss organisation

Apart from yourself, your team counts 3 professionals with thorough knowledge of PLM solutions and processes. You will report to the Functional Manager of CF-IDD - Product Development.

Business-oriented mindset and technical understanding

The entries into this position are several. You have acquired skills within different areas of PLM, e.g. quality management or engineering change management from prior employments, or you could be a Business/Process Development Consultant keen on working with IT-solutions. Alternatively, you have recently obtained an MSc in Business Economics or Engineering. In any case you thrive in the field between IT and the business using your technical understanding and business-oriented mindset.

You are driven by your own initiative and have the ability to conduct decision-making in order to reach the finish line. You are comfortable juggling with many tasks concurrently, and you view IT-solutions from the business' perspective. To this end, you will need an open mind and the ability to listen and communicate diversely across business units.
